Helping your business thrive

Your business journey

Scaling for growth

As you progress beyond the initial stages of your business and begin to scale, new challenges will arise. You may seek additional funding rounds, explore acquisitions of complementary companies or getting ready to exit. If so, there are various issues to consider when implementing such updates and protecting your position as business owners. We have extensive experience of assisting companies at all stages of their business growth journey.

Managing risk

Businesses often underestimate unseen risks which can target their assets or information. Early risk identification and proper management will protect you from difficulties, disputes, and litigation. Having contracts, policies, and procedures in place, along with a response plan, is critical.

We can help you to protect and leverage your unique assets, including brand identity, innovation, and creativity. Unregistered intellectual property rights are valuable, and our IP lawyers can guide you on safeguarding and harnessing them effectively.

Commercial advisory

Your commercial arrangements are key to business success, whether it be supplier agreements, commercial contracts with customers and partners or the handling of data and assets.

Our commercial team advise founders, owners and directors on the full range of commercial contracts, licensing and tech agreements. We provide advice and support to businesses across three core areas: commercial, technology, data and information.

People

Business owners recognise that their most valuable asset is their workforce. However, the legal framework for attracting, retaining, incentivising, and managing your talent relies on generic contracts and reward systems.

In any business phase, employing and retaining people can be a critical pain point. Given the complexity and frequent changes in UK employment law, it's essential to ensure accuracy and seek expert legal advice early on. Our employment team are ready to help.

Responsible business

Responsible business and ESG considerations are at the forefront of global business discussions. As we all seek resilient and sustainable growth, individuals and companies are reevaluating their societal and environmental impact and associated risks. Our specialised advice empowers organisations to ensure they can thrive now and in the future.
